

SUSTAINABLE BUILDING PROGRAM: an Optional, Free Service

The Coconino County Sustainable Building Program (CCSBP), provides the opportunity to design and build beyond the International Energy Conservation Code (IECC). Projects that participate in the program can benefit from reducing the use of energy, water, and resources, as well as improving indoor and outdoor environmental quality. Free services provided by the Sustainable Building Program include consultations, resources, educational programs, plan reviews, field inspections, code support for conventional and alternative constructions, and sustainable building certification. As an incentive to program participation and building more sustainably, qualifying projects receive Fast-Track permitting of building and wastewater permits.

In addition to requesting program participation through the building permit application, applicants must also complete a separate Sustainable Building Program- Certification Program application in the Portal. Please visit the CCSBP webpage here.
